UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

OFFICE OF THE GENERAL COUNSEL, Washington, D.C.

Summer 1999-Summer 2004

General Attorney

Wrote memorandum sent to chief state school officers in 50 States by Secretary Richard Riley regarding research on disparities in educational and financial resources among racial and ethnic groups and between urban and non-urban districts and how these disparities raise potential violations of the Title VI disparate impact regulation. Researched legal and education policy issues regarding the application of Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 to single-sex schools and classes to assist in development of Title IX policy. Prepared Department’s submissions for government-wide reports to the United Nations, including the U.S. report to the Committee on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination and an update of the U.S. report for the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights. Drafted papers presenting policy options for inter-office team that examined how the Department could improve its assistance to low-performing schools so that all students are given the opportunity to achieve high standards. Negotiated Department-wide interoffice compromise regarding implementation of multiracial categories by educational institutions. Developed strategies for plan to increase access to the Department’s activities, services and programs for Limited-English proficient individuals. Reviewed and revised documents and letters regarding interpretation of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act. Assisted in revisions of Title IX policy guidance on sexual harassment for school districts and universities in light of constitutional case law developments. Participated in development of U.S. government’s position in race and gender discrimination litigation, including defense of the Department’s Title IX athletics policy.

Fall 1997-Summer 1999

Associate

Represented urban school district in suit alleging the state’s failure to provide an adequate education under the state constitution. Investigated and interviewed potential expert and lay witnesses to testify regarding adequacy of education provided to students. Counseled and defended school district administrators in depositions and deposed a state official. Drafted interrogatories and responses to interrogatories in adequacy litigation. Researched and wrote analyses for briefs for school districts in race discrimination suits, including suit alleging state funding formula had a disparate impact on minority students in urban school district and that district’s student assignment plan unconstitutionally utilized race as a factor.

REV. 959– 1018 (2015)(lead article), which proposes a restructuring of education federalism to embrace federal leadership in a national effort to achieve equal access to an excellent education.

MAJOR PUBLICATIONS

Books

Editor, A FEDERAL RIGHT TO EDUCATION: FUNDAMENTAL QUESTIONS FOR OUR DEMOCRACY (NYU Press 2019). This book gathers research and ideas from leading constitutional and education law scholars about why the United States should recognize a federal right to education; the avenues for creating such a right; and, how the right should be defined.

Co-editor with Professor Charles J. Ogletree, Jr., Jesse Climenko Professor of Law, Harvard Law School, THE ENDURING LEGACY OF RODRIGUEZ: CREATING NEW PATHWAYS TO EQUAL EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY (Harvard Education Press 2015). This book examines the impact of the Supreme Court's decision in San Antonio Independent School District v. Rodriguez that refused to recognize a federal constitutional right to education. It offers innovative federal, state and local law and policy solutions to inequitable disparities in educational opportunity.

DISRUPTING EDUCATION FEDERALISM: RESTRUCTURING EDUCATION FEDERALISM TO ADVANCE EQUAL ACCESS TO AN EXCELLENT EDUCATION (in progress). This book contends that the approach to education federalism in the United States serves as one of the principal obstacles to equal educational opportunity. It proposes a novel approach to education federalism that harnesses research on the strengths of federal education policymaking while simultaneously empowering a more effective federal-state partnership that ensures equal access to an excellent education.
